

Bruce and Claire Billingsley

Bruce and Claire seemed destined to meet: he was teaching adult English literature classes from his home in Dripping Springs as requested by Wimberley community chorus friends who knew of his being a retired college professor. Those same friends knew Claire had taught the same at the high school level and invited her to carpool with them to enjoy Byron, Shelly, and Keats from this gifted teacher. He had season tickets to the Austin symphony, so he called widow Claire Smullen to check her level of interest.

Romance bloomed. They had an outdoor wedding in Drippin' and soon realized Wimberley would be home. She has been active in local historic sites restoration and Bruce has worked alongside her raising money through his musical programs. Bruce has also taught a Baptist Men's Bible study, where they had been attending church. He has 2 fine sons and 5 grandchildren, all living in Boerne. Their good friend Mary Northern (and Presbyterian) introduced them to Pastor Clint whose Bible teaching made membership here a natural.

Phil Lebkuecher

My wife Alice and I have two sons, Matthew and Blake. Matt graduated from Wimberley High School in May, 2016 and will attend Blinn Community College in Bryan this fall. Blake will be a sophomore at WHS. Matt is an Eagle Scout and both young men are avid hunters and fishermen. I grew up in Sarasota, Florida and did my undergraduate studies at Mississippi State University. Alice was raised here in Wimberley, graduated from Texas State and we met at the LBJ Library while attending real estate appraisal classes. I also have an MBA from Brenau University.

I'm a financial advisor with a boutique wealth management firm in Austin. I developed the small neighborhood here in Woodcreek called Oak Orchard. Alice is a real estate agent with the local Keller Williams office. I'm currently the president of the Wimberley Institute of Cultures while Alice is very active with the WHS Parent/Teacher Organization. Together we enjoy the beautiful Hill Country by hiking and swimming. I also enjoy golf, college football, and bird hunting.
